Do You Really Want To Know? (Huntington's Disease Documentary, 2012)

Three families face the difficult decision of whether or not to be tested for Huntington's disease: a degenerative neurological illness that is akin to having ALS, Schizophrenia and Alzheimer's, all at the same time. The odds are grim: they have a 50/50 chance of inheriting the gene, and there is no cure.

The Trouble With Dying (Assisted Suicide Documentary, 2013)

The Trouble with Dying examines the current debate on euthanasia from the perspective of individuals who are personally affected by the political decisions society will make on this issue. The production asks the questions of how we choose to balance in society the sanctity of life with the desire to have a meaningful control over how life ends.

Hopkins 24/7 (1999, ABC)

The original medical documentary series that started it all! A six-part cinéma-vérité study of Baltimore's Johns Hopkins Medicine in 1999, offering a detailed look at life in a hospital. The series was culled from 900 hours of film shot over a three-month period, as hand-held cameras were used to follow doctors and patients around the clock.

Hopkins (2008, ABC)

Hopkins is a 7-part medical documentary (sequel to the 1999 Hopkins 24/7) TV series set at Johns Hopkins Hospital, a teaching hospital in Baltimore, Maryland (USA).

<https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL6F03ACA24641269B>

Boston Med (2010, ABC)

Boston is a city renowned for three superb American hospitals: Massachusetts General Hospital, Brigham and Women's Hospital, and Children's Hospital. Over four months, ABC cameras had unparalleled access to hospital staffs and patients. From operating rooms to end-of-life meetings, "Boston Med" explores the culture of doctors and nurses and the conversations that happen outside the patient's earshot.
